Safety Training & Services to the Construction Industry

FACT SHEET

ConstructionSkills Site Safety Plus – Safety Awareness 1 day Course

INTRODUCTION

This one day health and safety awareness course is intended to help develop an understanding of the key construction health and safety issues for various occupations working in the industry and to enable them to improve their knowledge of health and safety issues that apply to their particular area of work.

COURSE AIMS

Deliver an introductory course to help raise the level of health and safety awareness when working within the construction industry to enable delegates to contribute to effective health and safety management while working on site.

This course is also an essential foundation course for those wishing to obtain industry accreditation.

FOR WHOM THE TRAINING IS INTENDED

Construction company personnel who want to raise their level of health, safety, welfare and environmental knowledge to help them identify hazards on site, and how to avoid them

OBJECTIVES

At the end of the course, delegates will understand:-

1. Their duties/responsibilities under the current legislation;
2. How and why the construction industry continues to have a poor accident record; and how they can contribute to making the industry a safer place to work;
3. Why employers need to set up safe systems of work; and why employees need to follow these systems and obey site rules;
4. That health and welfare issues are as important as safety. This will be emphasised as each course topics are addressed.
5. How to select and properly use Personal Protective Equipment
6. Safe Work at Height Issues
7. Other construction related topics health and safety requirements

TRAINEE NUMBERS - 18 delegates (maximum per course)

ACHIEVEMENT MEASUREMENT

A "Post Course" multiple choice test will be used at the end of the course to measure delegate's new health and safety retained knowledge.
